Arkia and U.S. Airline Giant JetBlue Sign Interline Agreement for Connecting Flights to Leading U.S. Destinations

Arkia Airlines announces the signing of an interline agreement (connecting flights) with U.S. airline giant JetBlue, the sixth-largest airline in the United States, which operates an extensive network of routes across North America, Latin America, and the Caribbean.

The agreement represents a significant upgrade in service for Israeli travelers, linking Arkia's flight schedule—operating up to seven weekly nonstop flights to New York's JFK Airport—with JetBlue's broad destination network throughout the United States, the Caribbean, and Central America.

For the Israeli consumer, the agreement delivers a convenient, seamless, and secure travel experience, offering quick and easy connections to a wide range of major and popular destinations in the United States, the Caribbean, and Central America, including Los Angeles, Fort Lauderdale (Miami area), Boston, Orlando, Washington, D.C., Cancun (Mexico), Guatemala, Costa Rica, and dozens of additional destinations across JetBlue's network.

As part of the agreement, passengers will benefit from full baggage through-check—from Ben Gurion Airport to their final destination in the United States, and from any U.S. destination through to arrival in Israel—without the need to collect baggage at the connecting airport, as well as full protection in the event of delays or changes to any segment of the journey. This combination ensures maximum convenience, significant time savings, and peace of mind throughout the trip.

Dave Jehn, Vice President of Network Planning and Partnerships at JetBlue, said:

"Our new interline agreement with Arkia highlights JetBlue's business focus on offering our customers more convenient and affordable travel options. The partnership allows us to expand our global reach and provides customers with a wider range of destinations and seamless connections between flights."

Oz Berlovitz, CEO of Arkia, added:

"First and foremost, I would like to thank our partners at JetBlue—Daniel Shurz, Senior Vice President of Revenue, Network and Enterprise Planning; Dave Jehn, JetBlue executive; Andy Parker, Managing Director of Partnerships and Strategic Alliances; and Thomas Connelly, Director of Airline Partnerships and Alliances. This agreement adds a significant layer to strengthening Arkia's long-haul operations and expanding the range of services for customers traveling to North America, including the business travel segment. We are proud to also offer American passengers convenient access to Israel on Arkia flights, via efficient connections from across the United States. Arkia will continue to expand international partnerships, strengthen its market position, and provide advanced, convenient, and more accessible flight solutions for Israeli travelers."

In the first phase, bookings will be available exclusively through travel agents, via GDS systems.
